Who am I?

Sougato Das

Managing Director, Partnering

The Biotechnology Innovation Organization

- Most of you know me as “the guy who sends you emails”
- At least I’m not “the guy who leaves you voice mails”
- I’ve probably helped setup a business development meeting or two for you, even if you didn’t know it
- #1 goal for JPM2017: get more sleep than at past JPMs

JPM tips

- BIO is offering meeting space: https://bio.org/JPM
- Be careful when using hourly room rental sites (e.g. Liquid Space). Sometimes rooms are listed that were booked outside the system, and the lister forgot to block the room during that time. You will book the room successfully but then lose the room several days later.
- Expect to be charged for meetings in hotel lobbies. Many hotels have started to charge for simply talking to someone else in their lobbies during JPM. You to investor: "We have a first in class…" Hotel employee interrupting: "Hey buddy, if you want to stand here and chat it'll be $100 for 30 minutes." AWKWARD.

JPM tips

- Make sure you plan enough time to get between meetings.
- Try to get some sleep.
- Don’t forget your business cards. Just incase, pack them now.

Thanks.

That's the end. Questions? Email me: sdas@bio.org. If you want to "hit me up" at JPM, I'll be running partnering for BIO at 785 Market St. during the days. If you want meeting space there, go to bio.org/JPM or email me.

At night I may be at the VAbio and state bio receptions on Sunday followed by EY's Circus party. Mon I'll be at the JLABS shindig, Tue I'll be at Thomson Reuters and then BIO/BioCentury, and Wed it'll be Sofinnova. I'm trying to reception hop less than in previous years and Zzzzzzz more!

Happy JPM, Regards, Sougato
